Personal Expectations and Commitments

I will not use drugs, legal or illegal, unless prescribed by a doctor for my personal use.
(does not include over the counter common drugs)

I will learn to live the fruits of the Spirit by being loving, joyful, patient, kind, faithful, gentle, and self-controlled in my interactions with others.

I will not talk about people or create division by gossiping/slandering another person.

I will learn to apologize for the times I act out and take responsibility for my own actions, even when I fail to show love, gentleness, or self-control.

I will not engage in sexual activities outside of the commitment of marriage and that are to be enjoyed in the married context.

I will openly share my faith with those who don't know Jesus and seek to bring them closer to Christ.

Social Conduct

As someone who leads in our church, you now not only represent yourself, but you represent the church, and Jesus, in all you do. For this reason, the people we lead will judge the credibility of our message by the content of our lives. Substance abuse and sexual integrity are but two areas they'll watch; our financial stewardship, the way we engage with politics, our social media practices, how we treat our families and the way we respond to crises are some of the things they will notice.

The participants in this ministry and church attenders will visit your social media pages. While social media can be a great connection tool, it also serves as a window into your life beyond this ministry involvement. In light of that, we ask that you consider what you do and do not post, and leverage your social media presence with Jesus and your church in mind. We realize that this is a judgment call.
